STOCK OF THE MONTH: AMAZON.COM INC. NASDAQ: AMZN - $3,206.22

Amazon

Amazon engages in the retail sale of consumer products and subscriptions in North America and internationally. The company operates through three segments: North America, International, and Amazon Web Services (AWS). It sells merchandise and content purchased for resale from third-party sellers through online and physical stores. The company also manufactures and sells electronic devices, including Kindle, Fire tablets, Fire TVs, Rings, and Echo. In addition, it offers programs that enable sellers to sell their products on its websites, as well as its stores. Furthermore, the company provides compute, storage, database, analytics, machine learning, and other services, as well as fulfillment, advertising, publishing, and digital content subscriptions. It also offers Amazon Prime, a membership program, which provides free shipping of various items and access to streaming of movies and TV shows. Amazon was founded in 1994 and is headquartered in Seattle, Washington.

Investment Highlights

- Global leader in e-commerce.
- Surging profitability since 2018.

Linde Equity Report June 2021

Recent Results

First quarter revenues increased 44% to $108.5 billion compared with $75.5 billion the year before. Net income rose to $8.1 billion, or $15.79 per share, compared with $2.5 billion, or $5.01 per share, a year ago. Both revenues and operating income beat analysts' expectations by wide margins, driven by acceleration in AWS (>30% year-over-year growth), robust growth in the company's core retail business (>40%), and continued accelerating growth in third party retail (60%) and advertising (>70%).

Analysis and Conclusion

We have been aware of Amazon for many years. However, throughout its history, the company's lack of earnings and resulting sky-high P/E ratio precluded this stock from being considered by our valuation based newsletter. However, since 2018, Amazon's profitability has soared due to significant growth in its higher margin businesses, particularly AWS and its online advertising platform. With profits rising faster than its share price, the company's valuation multiples have shrunk such that Amazon now trades at 44x 2022 expected EPS of $72.19.

Considering Amazon's revenues and EPS are expected to grow an average of $\sim\!30\%$ and $\sim\!20\%$, respectively, through 2021 and 2022, 44 times earnings appears quite reasonable given these rapid growth rates and resulting PEG ratio (44/20) of 2.2. Amazon starts to look even more attractive based on expectations of rapid earnings growth continuing beyond 2022, causing its PEG ratio to fall below 2.0 – a rare level in today's premium priced US market that tends to lead to upward share price movement.

Our bullish thesis, therefore, relies on rapid revenue and earnings growth sustaining, which we believe will occur for a number of reasons. Amazon's high margin advertising and AWS businesses are growing faster than the corporate average, which should continue to propel profitability higher in the years ahead. Amazon's ongoing secular growth market penetration also appears to be accelerating due to a permanent pull forward of demand across online retail, online advertising and cloud. Advertising revenues grew over 70% last quarter, solidifying Amazon as the 3rd largest online ad platform after Google and Facebook. And while AWS enjoyed 32% revenue growth last quarter, its backlog grew even faster at a 55% year-over-year rate.

Amazon's core retail business also continues to gain market share as it adds greater convenience, more competitive prices, and greater selection for its customers. Amazon has outpaced US online retail growth every quarter for over 14 years, yet still accounts for a mid-single-digit percent of the overall $5 trillion US retail market. As Amazon continues to expand its 1 day/same day delivery, retail competitors will simply not be able to catch up and match such customer convenience due to the significant infrastructure and scale required.

Trading near its lowest forward P/E ever at 44 times 2022 expected EPS, and with a realistic 20% annualized EPS growth outlook in the years ahead, Amazon appears undervalued.
